

DEALERS TALK TO READING PUBLIC

In This Issue of the Republican Many Interesting Stories of Splendid Values Are Told.

BIG STOCKS OF FALL GOODS

Merchants Have Confidence in Lines They Handle and Invite Public to Inspect Them.

Today's issue of the Republican contains sixteen pages, twice the regular size of the paper and is made necessary because of the advertising of the local merchants. Scattered throughout the paper will be found the Thanksgiving announcements of the progressive, wide-awake business men of Seymour. They recognize the Seymour Republican as the best advertising medium in the city, and take advantage of its columns to talk to the buying public, the same as they do when they come to their place of business.

If any merchant could get four out of every five families in Seymour into his store every day and have the chance to tell them of the merchandise to be had for their inspection and the values and savings he had to offer them, he would consider himself extremely fortunate. Since this is manifestly impossible, the progressive business man realizes that the next best thing is to tell his story to them in the columns of the Republican, because he knows that it goes into four out of every five homes in Seymour, that it is a home paper, read by every member of the family.

That newspaper advertising is a profitable investment, not an expense, is the testimony of every merchant who uses it systematically and persistently. The one who says it does not pay is invariably the one who has not tried it, or at most has gone at it half heartedly, with no enthusiasm or system.

The history of the big business successes of the world, retail as well as wholesale and manufacturing, is almost invariably a summary of small capital, industry, enthusiasm, brains and advertising.

The local merchants whose advertisements appear in the Republican are made up of the most aggressive and up-to-the-minute business men of the city. They have stocks in their various lines that will compare favorably with those of cities much larger than Seymour.

They do not hesitate to spend their money that you, the buying public of Seymour may have the very best the market affords in every line of merchandise, and they are worthy of the support and the patronage of every citizen of our town.

Apropos of those who imagine they have to go out of town to do their buying, is a placard on display in a local store which reads: "If you buy out of town, and we buy out of town, and everybody buys out of town, what in the thunder will become of our town."

Do not overlook the fact that local news will be found throughout the entire sixteen pages of this issue.

The Seymour Republican is the only newspaper published in Jackson coun-

TROOPS HASTEN TO GIVE SUPPORT TO HINDERBURG

Russian War Office Admits That German Forces Have Advanced Fifty Miles into Its Territory.

By United Press.
Petrograd, November 20—Great masses of German troops are being poured into Russian-Poland to support General Hindenburg's attempt to crush the Russian forces thrown back after their advance towards Thorn. It is admitted here that the German troops have now advanced about 50 miles into Russian territory. The Czar's troops have retreated in good order before the enemy.

SEYMOUR MAN IS HONORED BY I.O.O.F.

H. C. Bretthauer is Named as Grand Conductor at Regular Semi-Annual Session.

J. T. ARBUCKLE GRAND MASTER

Frank L. Schornick, of this City, Re-appointed District Deputy Grand Master for This County.

J. T. Arbuckle of Rushville, formerly of this city, was elected to the office of grand master of the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F. of Indiana, at the regular semi-annual session which closed Thursday at Indianapolis.

H. C. Bretthauer, of this city, was honored by being named for the office of grand conductor. Dr. A. A. Spears, of Brazil, was elected grand warden on the first ballot. There is always a spirited contest for this office as it leads to the highest office, that of grand master.

Frank L. Schornick was reappointed district deputy grand master for Jackson county.

In his report to the Grand Lodge, Wm. Nauer, of Vernon, the retiring grand master, showed that he had visited 125 lodges, in seventy-six of the ninety-two counties of the state, had traveled a distance of 16,540 miles and written approximately two thousand letters.

W. H. Leedy, for eighteen years grand secretary, reported the total number of lodges in the state to be 760, the number having been reduced three by consolidation. The present membership in the state is 85,131, a gain in the last six months of 1,087. In the same six month the subordinate lodges alone contributed $13,350.47 for the maintenance of the Odd Fellows home, at Greensburg.

The total resources of the lodges, not including the Grand Lodge building in Indianapolis, or the home property at Greensburg, was shown to be $4,811,993.79, with a total indebtedness of $608,624.50.

The annual report of the directors of the home at Greensburg showed that the actual operating expenses for the year were $29,141.42, and the average cost per guest, of which there was an average of 150, was $194.28.

Moving pictures taken in and around the home were shown at the afternoon session of the Grand Lodge, taking the place of the usual excursion to the home, which had to

SEYMOUR WOODMEN PLAN BIG MEETING

Many Visitors Will be Entertained When Large Class is Initiated Next Wednesday Night.

NORTH VERNON TO SEND CLASS

Supreme Treasurer John D. Volz, of Indianapolis, and Other Prominent Officers Will Attend.

Preparations are being made by the local camp of Modern Woodmen of America for the initiation of a large class of candidates and the entertainment of many visiting brothers next Wednesday night. The Seymour lodge has about twenty-five applications on file and it was decided that when the new members were given the work an invitation would be extended to the other nine lodges in Jackson county and to those in adjoining counties. Word has been received that all of the Jackson county lodges will send delegations and that many visitors from neighboring cities and towns will be present.

District Deputy Wolfe, of North Vernon, is personally interested in the meeting here and has notified the local members that he has organized a class of twenty-five who will be given the work at the same time. A delegation of fifty or more will accompany the North Vernon candidates to this city. They will arrive here sometime Wednesday afternoon and will be entertained by the Seymour members.

John D. Volz, of Indianapolis, the newly elected supreme treasurer, has sent word that he will be present at the meeting and is slated for an address. It is expected that several of the subordinate camps at Indianapolis will be represented and will escort the supreme treasurer here.

The work will be exemplified by the degree staff of the Seymour camp and both the local and North Vernon classes will be received at the same time. The meeting will be held at the lodge rooms in the K. of P. building and especial arrangements will be made for the entertainment of the visitors. A banquet will be served after the completion of the degree work and will be a feature of the evening. Speeches will also be given by the prominent members who are present. An orchestra will furnish the music.

The local camp has a membership of about 250 and like other lodges of the M. W. A. is in a growing condition since the troublesome rate question was decided at the national meeting at Toledo, O., last summer. The total membership of the lodge in America is in the neighborhood of a million and a quarter. The insurance rate has been a great source of annoyance to the members for several years but at the Toledo meeting this question was settled for all time to come and was placed at a figure where they may feel assured that there will be no further increases.

The Woodmen organized a camp here fifteen years ago and at this time has a total insurance of about $500,000 in force. During the last

TOTAL COST WILL AMOUNT TO $39,500

Property Owners Will Pay About $39,500 For Permanent Street Improvements This Summer.

BALANCE FALLS ON THE CITY

Settlement for Three of the Contracts Already Made—Council Must Raise Necessary Cash.

According to figures on file in the office of the city treasurer the total cost of the permanent street improvements completed this summer amounted to $39,500. Of this amount the property owners will pay approximately $30,500, while the remainder, $9,000 will fall upon the city.

Eighty individual property owners who were affected by the improvement of two blocks on South Chestnut street, the block on West Second between Chestnut and Walnut and West Second from Walnut street to Central avenue have made settlement with the city, the time having expired last Monday. The books show that fifty-one of the property owners paid cash while twenty-nine will pay for the improvements under the Barrett law which provides that the cost may be settled in ten equal annual payments. The cost of the three above mentioned contracts amounted to $22,000 and the city's part was $5,000.

Seventy-five property owners were affected by the improvement of West Seventh street from Chestnut to Pine streets and East Second from Ewing to Blish streets. The work on Seventh street cost $5,000 and on East Second street $12,500. The city will have to pay for street and alley intersections on the two streets to the amount of $4,000. Property owners on Seventh have until November 30 to settle in cash or sign waivers as required by the Barrett law while those on East Second have until December 14 to make settlement. Under the law settlement must be made within thirty days after the final assessment roll is accepted and approved by the council.

The total street improvement contracts this summer were the largest that have ever been awarded in Seymour in one year. The payment of the city's part for street and alley intersections has caused the councilmen considerable anxiety and worry and many hours have been spent by the finance committee and the treasurer in figuring out the best means of raising the necessary money. The money that is received from the property owners is paid over to the contractors and the city treasurer is given a receipt for the amount. The bonds are also taken over by the contractors as cash although the city treasurer is charged with the duty of making the collections which are paid to the holders of the bonds. Usually the bonds can be sold for par so that the contractors lose nothing by selling them in case they desire to convert them into cash.

The council has discussed several methods of raising the necessary cash to pay the city's part of the improvements. It has been suggested

GERMANS LOSE MANY HEAVY GUNS IN FLOODS

Snow Storm in Flanders Prevents Further Infantry Attacks by the Enemy.

By United Press.
Paris, November 20—Many heavy guns has been lost by the Germans in the floods in Flanders. The official statement today declares also that the artillery power from the coast to the Lys ceased somewhat yesterday. Snow is again falling in Flanders and the bad weather prevented any infantry attack being made by the enemy.

7 DEGREES ABOVE ZERO SETS RECORD

Lowest Temperature of the Season Recorded by Government Thermometer This Morning.

SATURDAY MAY BE WARMER

Chief of Fire Department Issues Warning to Guard Against Defective Chimneys.

Responding to the dash of winter weather which was felt so keenly in Seymour early this morning the government thermometer at the home of J. Thomas Hays, official weather observer, dropped to seven degrees above zero and marked the coldest weather of the season. The weather man in some manner found out several hours in advance that the cold wave was headed this way and his prediction was fulfilled in every particular.

The weather bureau promises that Mr. Winter will soon leave this community and that on Saturday a more moderate temperature can be expected.

One department of the city government—the fire department—is especially concerned about the cold snap for when furnaces and stoves are fired to an intense heat the danger of property destruction by fire increases. Chief Everhart today said that furnaces and chimneys should be inspected, if possible, and that all defects should be repaired. He pointed out that after furnaces have remained idle, several months small holes may be rusted in the pipes through which sparks and embers might be carried endangering surrounding property. It was shown that at a comparatively small expense such repairs could be easily made and might prevent a serious loss later.

The chief of the fire department also cautioned residents against throwing ashes in wood boxes. This is an extremely dangerous practice, it was stated, as frequently the ashes contain hot coals or sparks which ignite the containers and the flames spread to adjoining fences and sheds. The great majority of people have abolished wooden ash containers and have substituted concrete or metal boxes which are much safer.

Chief Everhart declared that many

MEXICO CITY IN STATE OF TUMULT

Consul Silliman Wires State Department that Situation There is Very Apprehensive.

VILLA'S FORCES MOVE SOUTH

Special United States Agent Carothers Says Little Opposition is Made.

By United Press.
Washington, November 20.—In a second message to the state department this afternoon Consul Silliman stated that the Mexican situation was "very apprehensive." He added that Carranza's troops were joining the exodus of Carranza's followers from Mexico City and that their destination was not reported.

Reasons for this flight were indicated by messages filed by Special Agent Carothers who reported that Villa's forces were sweeping southward rapidly without much opposition.

Ambassador Walls of the Spanish embassy, stated that the situation in Mexico "could not be graver." He asked protection for Spanish subjects in places where Spain has no consular representatives.

The first dispatch from Sullivan stated that the followers of Carranza were fleeing from Mexico City and that the capital is in a state of unrest and that disquieting rumors are afloat.

GERMANS MAY BE FIGHTING SIXTY MILES FROM WARSAW

Berlin War Office Expects Another Russian Defeat in Eastern Theater of War.

By United Press.

Berlin, November 20—Germany expects another defeat of the Russians in the eastern theater of war. Although it is still stated that the fighting in that district has not reached a decisive stage the situation is regarded as favorable.

General von Hindenberg has struck with heavy force towards Warsaw. The belief is general here that an advance has been made and that fighting is now in progress, possibly within sixty miles of Warsaw. With this advance engaging the principal attention of the Russians little thought is given to East Prussia.

When the frost is on the punkin, and the fodder's in the shock,
And you hear the kyooock and gobble of the struttin' turkey-cock,
And the clackin' of the guineas and the cluckin' of the hens,
And the rooster's hallylooyer as he tiptoes on the fence;
O, it's then's the times a feller is a feelin' at his best,
With the risin' sun to greet him from a night of peaceful rest,
As he leaves the house, bare-headed, and goes out to feed the stock,
When the frost is on the punkin, and the fodder's in the shock.

SEEK TRADE OF SOUTH AMERICA

DIFFICULTIES IN THE WAY

Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce Now Is at Work on a Plan Whereby American Manufacturers May Enter the Great Market Europe Was Compelled to Vacate at Outbreak of Hostilities.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Bureau of foreign and domestic commerce experts are at work on the reports obtained from every South American country with a view to suggesting to American manufacturers a feasible way of winning the enormous trade with those countries Germany was forced to abandon at the outbreak of the European war.

Preliminary reports received by the bureau recently show the situation to be greatly complicated. With the exception of Argentina, every country is financially embarrassed to a greater or less extent. With some of them, notably Brazil, the unsound financial condition obtained before the European war, which served to add to the difficulty.

With others the situation is the same as that which faced the cotton growers of the United States when their European market was closed by the war. They are loaded with huge crops and mineral products usually absorbed by European manufacturers are now out of reach.

Working Out a Plan.

There are very few factories in South America and little prospect of those of the United States being able to take up any large portion of the raw materials now filling warehouses in South American cities. Without exception, the American consuls reported that some arrangement must be made to provide financial aid and permit South American producers to realize to some extent on these stored products as a preliminary to the permanent establishment of the United States in South American trade.

While department officials admit it seems unlikely anything can be accomplished toward turning South American trade to the United States for several months at least, they are not hopeless that a way will be found. They are working out a plan the nature of which has not been disclosed, but which it is expected will be placed before American business men within a month in the form of suggestions by Secretary Redfield as to a method of procedure.

CHARGED WITH BAD FAITH

Carranza Renews His Accusations Against Villa.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Dispatches received from Mexico at the headquarters of the Constitutionalists in this city indicates that chaos runs riot in that country. In the dispatches are embodied a long telegram from First Chief Carranza in which he charges General Villa with bad faith. Carranza's telegram makes it plain that he is in an ugly mood, as he suggests that American evacuation of Vera Cruz "rests entirely in our hands for settlement." Carranza insists that he still has the support of most of the generals in Mexico.

CORONER ORDERS INQUIRY

Death of a Peoria Editor Has Aroused Suspicion.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 20.—Coroner Eckard has ordered an inquest into the death of E. F. Baldwin, editor of the Peoria Star, who died here yesterday. More than a month ago Baldwin was attacked by Gile Keithely, a young attorney, who had been the object of denunciation in Baldwin's paper. Keithely is said to have knocked Baldwin down, but for three weeks after the encounter the editor was at his desk daily.

FORTIFIED TOWNS GIVE UP

Villa Forces Continue to Score Notable Gains.

El Paso, Nov. 20.—Queretaro, one of Mexico's strongest fortified cities, has been evacuated by General Pablo Gonzales and his Carranza army, according to dispatches received from Aguas Calientes. No fighting was mentioned. A message from Leon stated General Villa received a dispatch from General Zapata announcing his capture of the historic citadel of Puebla after two weeks' battle.

Forced Turks to Retreat.

London, Nov. 20.—There has been further fighting on the Shatt-el-Arab between the British and the Turks. The British captured an entrenched camp held by 4,500 Turkish troops with twelve guns. The enemy retreated, losing two guns and many prisoners, animals and ammunition.

Disposing of the Dead.

Flushing, Nov. 20.—Numerous trams laden with bodies of the German dead are going to Seraing. It is believed that they will be cremated in the blast furnaces there.

ty that gives its readers a daily wire service. A special telephone has been installed in this office and over a leased wire news concerning this and foreign countries is received from the Indianapolis office of the United Press Associations. The Indiana state office is under the management of experienced, trained newspaper men who know how to handle the news as promptly as possible. The "stories" are covered as nearly accurately as possible and are written fairly and impartially as the facts are viewed by capable correspondents and reporters. At this time such a service is especially valuable because of the important events which are taking place each day in the European countries. The Republican gives the news more promptly than any other paper circulated in Seymour.

Readers of the Republican are also given the local news of the city and county and surrounding counties. Although the press service has been added especial effort is being made to publish all local events and this important phase of the paper has not been overlooked. With the two linotype machines in use in this office "copy" can be "ground" out rapidly and every "story" can be fully covered.

The purpose of the Seymour Republican is to publish the best newspaper that is possible in this city. That the people appreciate the new features that are added from time to time is proven by the steadily increasing circulation which, by the way, is greater than at any time in the history of the office. Today the Seymour Republican is issuing a larger number of daily papers than any other newspaper ever published in this city. The advertisers are interested in the circulation and they, too, recognize the improvements and advancement that have been made by the Seymour Republican which stands today the best advertising medium in Jackson county.

late a federal law. The government is now interested in honest, clean elections since United States senators are chosen by the direct vote of the people. The authority of the United States in such illegalities will do much to purify the ballot as the average law violator has a reluctance about answering a charge in Uncle Sam's court.

VERDICT OF JURY BRINGS SMILES AT POLICE STATION

Defendants in Damage Suit Declare Victory Upholds Efforts of Law Enforcement.

At the police station today there were smiles galore. Everyone was in a pleasant frame of mind and the unusually happy spirit that prevailed was due to the verdict of the jury in the damage case in which Chief of Police McCord and Officers Wallace and Ruddick were defendants. The policemen say that they were confident that they would win the suit all the time but, of course, they are rejoicing that the trial is over and the verdict has been filed. The jury returned their finding sixteen minutes after they retired for deliberation.

In speaking of the case Chief McCord said that in his opinion the verdict upholds the efforts of the department to enforce the law. If the officers had lost the case, he pointed out, it would be difficult to draw the line in the future for frequently the police are compelled to deal with minors who are alleged to have violated some law. "I believe ninety per cent. of the people were with us," declared the Chief today, "and the majority would have regretted to have seen the ten per cent minority rule. We shall continue in honest endeavor to enforce the laws of the state and city impartially and fairly, punishing all violators and protecting the best welfare of the citizens of Seymour."

The case which came to a quick close Thursday afternoon had been on trial for more than a week and attracted much attention. A large number of witnesses from this city were called by the parties to the suit and the case was fought hard by the attorneys who were engaged.

Chief McCord asserted that he had been asked by several persons why the alleged offenders were not charged with some offense on the morning following their arrest. "The police," he said, "did intend to file affidavits against the boys on the morning after their arrest, but after conferring with the prosecutor's office we were advised not to do so as the boys would probably make better witnesses in a case then pending in court if no affidavits were filed. Upon the advice of the prosecutor's office no charges were filed."

SENATOR LODGE CONDEMNS COURSE OF ADMINISTRATION

Compares Tennessee Incident to the Tampico Matter which Brought Excitement.

By United Press.
Boston, November 20, 1914.—Bitter condemnation of the administration's course in the Tennessee incident was voiced by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, at the Middlesex Club dinner last night, according to details which leaked out today. Lodge was quoted as saying "that within three days after the Tampico incident which was comparable to the Tennessee matter there was shedding of blood."

"Think of the flurry and excitement at Mexico's insult and the meekness and mildness with which the administration is considering the Tennessee incident" the senator concluded.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MARY SCHNECK HELD THURSDAY

Seven Grandsons of the Deceased Acted as Pallbearers and Carried Body to Last Resting Place.

The seven grandsons of the late Mrs. Mary Schneck, whose funeral occurred Thursday afternoon, acted as pallbearers and carried the body to its final resting place at Riverview cemetery. Short services were held at the residence on South Chestnut street, after which the remains were removed to the German Methodist church where the last rites were said.

The funeral services were in charge of the Rev. W. A. Schruoff, pastor of the German M. E. church, and he was assisted by the Revs. Jacob Allinger, of White Creek, J. F. Severinghaus, of New Albany, J. F. Marting, of Berea, O., College, and A. L. Rurst, pastor of the Market Street German M. E. Church at Louisville. The ministers spoke of the untarnished character of the deceased, her earnest endeavors to advance her church and her faith and of the many acts of charity and benevolence which she performed. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful, and indicated the high esteem and respect in which she was held by her many friends and acquaintances. The church was crowded to the doors with friends of the deceased who desired to pay her the last tribute.

Seymour wants a stone pile where the drunks can be sobered up without expense of taking them to jail at Brownstown. This is a conspiracy to reduce the population of the county seat and eventually have it moved to Seymour.—Mitchell Tribune.

If the one who penned the above statement had closed his eyes and shot in the dark he could not have missed the truth any farther. It is so far from the mark that we judge that it must be an attempt at a joke. The Seymour citizens are only demanding what is right, fair and just. It is true the majority of the jail inhabitants come from this city and that is the reason Seymour believes it is justified in asking for the establishment of a rock pile here. If it were located here the citizens would be saved the expense of transportation but the most important object is to reduce the number of tramps and idlers who come here on the freight trains. However, if the county commissioners will not agree to permit Seymour to have a rock pile the citizens are willing to accept the next best thing and have it located at Brownstown. Any method, any plan or any scheme by which prisoners sent to the county jail for intoxication or other petty offenses can be employed will be a wonderful improvement upon the present system which permits them to spend their time in idleness.

A certain group of fellows over at Terre Haute will find that facing a charge in the United States district court is an entirely different proposition from appearing at their leisure moments in a Vigo county court. The United States district attorney has attempted to show that persons guilty of election irregularities vio-

NATION MOURNS
"BOB" BURDETTE

Gentle Humorist Dead at His Home In Pasadena.

THE END OF LONG ILLNESS

Though He had Been Ill For the Greater Part of Two Years, Famous Fun Maker Had Kept Up His Literary and Journalistic Work Until Ten Weeks Ago, When His Physical Troubles Reached Acute Stage.

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 20.—After an illness covering the greater part of two years, Dr. Robert J. Burdette, preacher, author and humorist, is dead at his home here.

Dr. Burdette's illness became acute ten weeks ago. Up to that time he had continued his literary and journalistic work, to which he turned after giving up the active pastorate of Temple Baptist church, Los Angeles, in 1909.

Mr. Burdette began cultivating good humor obscurely in Peoria, Ill., forty years ago, when he spent part of his days at a desk on the Peoria Transcript "trying to think," as he himself once related, "of pleasant things to tell the folk when I went home at night." His audience of "folk" then was Carrie Garrett, the Peoria girl he had married a short time before, while she lay supposedly on her deathbed, but who lived, and, though an invalid for life, became immortalized by her husband as "Her Little Serene Happiness." It was she who encouraged him to sow his humor in wider fields. At her bedside Burdette became prolific with funmaking contributions to the Burlington (Ia.) Hawkeye, and through these he became famous the country over as "The Burlington Hawkeye Man." The little invalid wife encouraged him, too, to try the lecture field. "She kept me at it," said Burdette.

At sixty, ten years ago, Mr. Burdette was called to the permanent pastorate of the Temple Baptist church of Los Angeles, Cal. At Clifton-on-the-Sea, Pasadena, he had a spacious house with broad verandas. His first wife died after fifteen years of encouragement to him, during which she had traveled all over the country with him. In 1899 he married Mrs. Clara B. Baker of Pasadena.

Burdette died with the conviction that there was not only just as much fun in the world today as ever, but "a great deal more—because," as he said, "there are more people in it, and people are the funniest things on this side of the grave."

UNABLE TO SECURE BOND

Terre Haute Election Suspects Still Held in Jail.

Indianapolis, Nov. 20.—The eighteen Terre Haute men arrested on warrants issued by the United States marshal, charging them with corrupt practices at the polls, are still locked up in the Marion county jail, not yet having been able to provide the bond of $2,500. The sufficiency of the bond must be approved by Mr. Dailey, who has refused to accept bonds provided by professional bondsmen.

Eighteen residents of Terre Haute appeared before the federal grand jury yesterday in the election cases, and it is understood more than 200 more will be called to testify. All of the election paraphernalia from the precincts in Terre Haute where evidence of crooked methods were found has been brought to Indianapolis by federal authorities. The investigation into the election frauds probably will not be completed for two weeks. So much evidence will be heard by the jury that it will be impossible to finish the probe before at least ten days, according to court officers.

MAN DIES OF HIS WOUNDS

Brawl in a Resort at South Bend Terminates Fatally.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 20.—One man is held on a charge of murder and two women are in custody as his accomplices as a result of the killing of Joseph Clark of Niles, Mich., in a resort on the west side. Ernest L. Dodge, aged twenty-six, of Binghamton, N. Y., has confessed to the murder, according to the police, and has implicated Mrs. Cora Mann and Mrs. Nellie Brown. Mrs. Mann conducted the resort where the murder occurred.

All four were intoxicated, authorities say, and engaged in an argument over the women. During a fight Clark was stabbed in the hand. An artery was severed and he died an hour and a half later in the resort. Clark was well known at Niles. He was about forty years old and single.

NO CLUE TO THE ASSASSIN

Floyd County Man Called to Door and Slain by Unknown.

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 20.—William Ross was called from his home at Frederickburg and shot by an unidentified assassin. He died a few hours later of the wound. Ross, who was sixty-five years old and a widower, was a laborer and was an inoffensive citizen. There is no clue to the identity of the assassin.

RIPPLE SKIRT MODELS ARE INVARIABLY FUR FINISHED

Rich Brown of Sable, Skunk and Squirrel are Very Popular as Trimmings this Season.

By Margaret Mason for United Press
New York, November 20.—You've simply got to be a bit crooked if you are going to be fashionable. The very newest skirt models are either short to the shoe tops in front and the back with a fall to the instep on either side or they are up to the calf on each side and to the shoe tops at front and back. Some are cut in jagged points around the bottom and others are finished in scallops while one daring model advocates that erstwhile sloppy effect whereby the front barely touches the boottops and the back just grazes the heels. Along these lines is a skirt whose long tunic edged with fur hangs to the heels in back and just below the knees in front. Under it, only visible in the front, is an underskirt to the shoe tops. Another skirt shown at the recent New York Fashion Fete was so hung that the length of the front was on a line with the tops of the band of fur edging in back. The effect of a front view then was that of two rows of fur with a pair of tootsies thrust between rows for the back band of fur was set on the whole width of the fur band longer behind.

The ripple skirts are also very good and invariably fur finished. They are usually cut circular but some are shown shirred on a hip yoke or even at the waist line.

Never has fur been used so extensively as a dress trimming and the lovely new shades of putty and sand are exquisite in combination with the rich brown of sable, skunk and the less expensive dyed squirrel. Sand and putty are the exact shades their names signify and the former shade especially should prove extremely popular aside from its beauty for it certainly does take sand these days to wear some of the styles.

Black tulle overskirts and sleeves in black velvet gowns continue to be a favorite combination for smart afternoon costumes gleaming here and there with ropes or buttons of jet. Where a relief from such soberness is desired the sand and putty shades are combined with the black with charming results. This color scheme has at last ousted from supreme favor the black and white combinations so long and so dearly beloved. Black tulle over velvet or satin and heavily bedecked with jet continues the queen of evening gowns also. Black lace has made a wild effort to supplant the tulle but as a smart fashion authority boldly announced that the lace is not to be worn by any woman under twenty-eight its chances for favor can be seen with half an eye are very slight.

As an inevitable outcome of the sleeveless fashion for evening has come the wristlet of fur with a fluff of tulle attached to fall over the hand. This dainty little conceit will undoubtedly play the good Samaritan to many an ungainly hand and ill-turned wrist this winter.

There is an exciting new shoe or boot rather which comes in white, grey or beige buckskin and laces up the inner side of the shoe instead of the front. It is chastely plain and tight fitting save for a saucy little pointed tip of black patent kid stuck on the toe with an effect of piquancy for all the world like that of a beauty spot 'gainst the damask of milady's cheek.

A dashing little debutante wore a pair of those startling boots in white buckskin at the Ritz the other day and you brought up with a start from the tip of her pretty toes to the tip of her pretty nose only to find that it was daintily dusted with rouge on its reticulated end in the very latest mode.

Another pair of comic opera boots sported on the same occasion were of all over black patent kid. They laced up the front to a height half way of the calf where they ended in a swaying black silk tassel.

Some of the quaintest little black patent kid dancing slippers have bright red heels. With this hectic touch to her pedal extremities and her nasal appendage milady is certainly going to extremes for her bit of color these days, 'Eh what!

EXPERIMENTING WITH NEW AUTOMOBILE FUEL

Substitute for Gasoline to Cost About 1 1/4 Cents a Gallon—Being Used in 1,000-Mile Run.

Indianapolis, Nov. 20.—Tests being made here on the Speedway auto race track will determine whether a company composed of local and Detroit automobile capitalists will begin the manufacture of a substitute for gasoline that it is said would reduce the cost of auto engine fuel to about 1 1/4 cents a gallon. The substitute is called "zoline" and was discovered by John Andrus of McKeesport, Pa., who recently was paid $30,000 by the government for discovery of a method of toughening armor plate.

A large Marmon car is speeding about the big oval here in a solitary 500-mile race. It is using only zoline. Today the same car repeated the test. After the 1,000 mile run the engine will be taken apart and examined to determine whether the substitute injures the engine.

Carl Fisher, president of the Speedway, ordered the test. He is seconded by N. B. Joy of the Packard company, Roy Chapin of the Hudson, both of Detroit, and by prominent local men. These men will form the company and manufacture zoline on a large scale if the tests are successful.

THE RETAILERS' OPPORTUNITY

Every time a manufacturer of a national product places his advertising in this newspaper he is helping the local retailers who handle that article.

He is making people familiar with the name and brand and the article's uses.

He is creating a desire that the retailer can turn into definite sales with profit to himself.

When the retailer sees a national product advertised in the newspaper he is only using ordinary business sense by putting the goods in the window and doing all he can to pull trade his direction.

ADVERTISE It Pays In The Republican

The American Quartet

With Clayton Conrad

The program of the American Quartet and Clayton Conrad will consist of both vocal and instrumental music, interspersed with cartoons—just such a program as Lyceum audiences delight in.

The instrumental music will be presented by three members of the quartet on the violin, cello and piano.

The length of the program will be about one hour and forty minutes, one half hour being devoted to the work of Mr. Conrad—the cartoonist.

Mr. Clayton Conrad features speech in drawing his pictures. His experience in newspaper cartoon and commercial art work, combined with fine ideas of color, fit him well for the position he holds with this company.

The pictures he draws in color are original and are new ideas presented in a novel way. He uses two easels. Mr. Conrad has made a special study of coloring and the results he obtains in a few moments with crayons are truly wonderful.

The American Quartet will appear at the Majestic Theatre,

TUESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 24th

8:15 O'CLOCK

As the first number of this season's Lyceum Course. A good, lively, varied program, consisting of vocal and instrumental selections, readings, whistling solos, etc.

Admission 25 and 35 Cents

Reserved seats 10c extra, on sale Saturday at Carters' Drug Store. Season tickets, good for entire course of five numbers, may be had for $1.00. Children's season tickets 75 cents.

STOCK DISEASE NOT EASILY CARRIED TO HUMAN BEINGS

Thoroughly Cooked Meat from Infected Cattle Does not Endanger Health.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—According to the specialists of the Department of Agriculture people even states quarantined for the foot-and-mouth disease need have no fear of eating meat, provided they cook it thoroughly. The foot-and-mouth disease is not easily communicated to human beings through food, although milk from a diseased cow might transmit the disease to a human being. In the case of milk, however, pasteurization will render it entirely safe. Human beings who do get the disease commonly get it from direct contact with a sick animal. It is wisest, therefore, for people to keep away from all animals having the disease, unless they are properly provided with rubber gloves, coats and boots, and these are thoroughly disinfected after each visit to the animals.

In the case of meat, as in the case of milk, it must be remembered that all herds which actually show the disease are quarantined, and neither milk nor meat from the sick animals can be sold. 60 per cent of the meat used in this country is produced in the nearly 900 Federally inspected slaughtering and packing establishments located in 240 cities. In these establishments no animal is slaughtered until it has passed an ante-mortem inspection and also a most rigid post-mortem inspection by a veterinarian at time of slaughter. After slaughter its meat cannot leave the establishment until it has been carefully examined and stamped "U. S. Inspected and Passed." In all these establishments no animal showing any symptoms whatever of foot-and-mouth disease is allowed to go to slaughter, and no meat which, on post-mortem inspection, shows any suspicious symptoms of this complaint can be shipped out of the establishment. All meat suspected of coming from an animal suffering with this complaint is sent, under Government seal, to the tanks to be rendered into fertilizer. The Federal inspection stamp on meat, therefore, means that it is entirely safe.

The Federal Government, however, has no jurisdiction over local slaughter houses which do not ship meat outside of the State in which it is slaughtered. If, however, meat from such an animal did escape from one of these local slaughter houses, which are purely under state or municipal control, all danger of its communicating the disease to human beings would be removed when it is thoroughly cooked and sterilized. Those who are located near an infected region and wish to be absolutely certain of the safety of their meat should cook it thoroughly.

The disease when contracted by adults is not at all a serious illness. It commonly takes the form of slight fever sores in the mouth and a slight eruption on the fingers. In the case of small or sickly children, it may take a more serious form, especially if complicated by other illnesses.

TOTAL COST WILL AMOUNT TO $39,500.

that a temporary loan large enough to cover the amount be made and then be lifted when the settlement with the county treasurer is made next month. However, it is pointed out that the money received from taxes will be needed to defray the general expenses of the city government and if the improvements are paid with that money it will be necessary to negotiate a loan anyway. It has also been suggested that bonds be issued and that they be redeemed in nine or twelve months. It is not believed that any difficulty would be met in disposing of short time bonds bearing five or six per cent. interest. The way the finance committee figures out the proposition is that the city will be in a better financial condition in a year from now and after that time the income will be sufficient to meet all expenses. For the past year the receipts have been less than the expenditures but with the higher tax levy which will be effective in 1915 a larger revenue will be received. The council believes that as soon as the outstanding bills are paid the tax levy can again be reduced.

Judge Swails, James A. Cox, Peter Sensback and A. C. Branaman went to Brownstown this morning to attend court.

SERIOUS REVERSE CLAIMED

Germans Check the Russian Advance.

STORIES CONFLICTING

Berlin and Petrograd Not in Agreement As to Details.

GREAT BATTLES NOW RAGING

Interest In War Drama Now Centers On Eastern Front.

London, Nov. 20.—On the outcome of great battles now raging in East Prussia and Poland, the interest in military operations is centered. Petrograd says that there has been no serious reverse in Poland and that the German offensive has merely checked the too rapid advance of Russian cavalry. The steady progress of invading armies in East Prussia is claimed, together with further progress toward Cracow.

Berlin says officially that the newly commenced battles in the eastern theater of war are proceeding. Vienna announces that the Russians have been defeated in Galicia north of Rzeszow, and that 3,000 prisoners were taken. The Russian movement toward the Carpathians is said to be of no importance.

The French government's reports of the fighting from the North sea to Alsace do not conflict with the German official statement. From Paris and Berlin it is learned that the deadlock continues with no decisive outcome in sight. Paris reports heavy cannonading between the coast and the Lys and claims a victory gained by the Turcos over the Germans at Tracy-Leval, between the Oise and the Aisne. Berlin asserts that a French attack in the Argonne was repulsed.

The Fighting in Flanders.

Official reports of the fighting in Belgium and France are unusually brief and lacking in detail. Sacrifices and suffering have not yet produced a decisive advantage for either allies or Germans. From the North sea to Alsace the deadlock appears unbreakable. The allies are holding in check the German effort to reach the French coast, while the French and British warships are hammering the German positions along the coast to the River Lys in France. The Germans continue their bombardment of the allied line, while preparing, it is assumed, for a new onslaught with infantry.

The fighting in West Flanders, from the seacoast to south of Dixmude, is going on under most extraordinary conditions. The flooding of the region has placed a vast swamp between the opposing lines, but here and there detachments of Germans and allies endeavor to capture and hold islands suitable for artillery bases. It is reported that a small force of British infantry and French marines captured the village of Schoorbeke, one of the islands in the inundated region, approaching it in flatboats and rafts from the rear while attacking in armored automobiles from the front. The combined attack was made at night. The Germans were surprised and routed, losing guns, ammunition and supplies.

This is the character of the fighting which is going on throughout the flooded country. Morasses and flooded ditches do not hold back the armies altogether. The weather is cold and wet and great suffering is reported from both sides.

On the Eastern Line.

The situation on the eastern battle front has reached the critical stage. The outcome of two desperate battles now proceeding in East Prussia and northwest Poland will determine whether the Russians are to overflow German territory from the Baltic to the Carpathians, or whether the Germans will hammer the czar's masses back to the defensive line of the Vistula. The news indicates that the Russians are making progress at the north and south, in East Prussia and in southwest Poland, while the Germans are advancing in the center, in northwest Poland. The whole movement in the east front is the German offensive at the center and the Russian offensive at the north. If the Russians can drive westward through East Prussia, seizing the network of railways invaluable to the Germans, the German defensive line centered at Thorn will be turned and complete withdrawal would have to be made.

If the Germans on the other hand can smash the Russian center, there is little doubt that the entire Russian line will have to retire in the north and south as well as the center. Each side is fighting with tremendous energy and is bringing to bear immense forces of fresh troops.

Laziness.

Laziness is the deadliest of all diseases, for the disease itself prevents one from taking the remedy.

BLACK SEA SCENE OF NAVAL BATTLE

Both Russia and Turkey Claim Victory.

London, Nov. 20.—In the Black sea between Sebastopol and Odessa yesterday a great battle was fought by a Russian fleet of two battleships and five cruisers and a Turkish squadron composed of the famous German battle cruiser Goeben and light cruiser Breslau.

Both Petrograd and Constantinople claim a decisive victory. The Russian government supplies details of the fight and asserts that the Goeben was badly damaged by fire from the Russian flagship's twelve inch guns and escaped only because of her great speed. The Turkish government gives out that the Russian fleet was defeated, that a Russian battleship was seriously damaged and that the Russian ships, pursued by the Turkish ships, fled to Sebastopol harbor.

DETAILS STILL ARE LACKING

The Smyrna Incident Hasn't Been Explained at Washington.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The state of communication between Washington and east Mediterranean points find the administration unable to report any progress in its efforts to ascertain exactly what occurred and the causes therefor in connection with the firing on the launch of the cruiser Tennessee by Turks at Smyrna.

Officials here are more than ever of the opinion that Turkey will not fail to make satisfactory amends for the incident at Smyrna. It was pointed out that in addition to the interest of Turkey lying in the direction of friendly relations with the United States, her friend Germany might also be counted upon at this time to keep Turkey out of difficulties with the United States. There is little doubt here that even if the Turks should prove refractory, German influence will be brought to bear on the porte with the view to making satisfactory explanation of the Smyrna incident.

Practically all items of more than $50 to $100 were made by candidates, several of them donating $1,000.

Child Fatally Burned.

Columbus, Ind., Nov. 20.—The two-year-old daughter of Chafe Bicourt was burned to death at her home northeast of here when her father tried to replenish the fire with coal oil. The child toddled at his side when he poured the oil from the can. When an explosion occurred the child was covered with the burning oil.

Servian Troops Withdraw.

Nish, Nov. 20.—The withdrawal of the Servian troops from Valjevo is officially announced. The Austrians, according to the announcement, tried to hamper the movement, but were vigorously repulsed by the Servian artillery.

OFFICIAL WARNING GIVEN TO FARMERS

Beware of Men Posing As Federal Agents.

Washington, Nov. 20.—The department of agriculture has sent a warning to cattle men to beware of men posing as representatives of the federal government in its fight against the foot and mouth disease. Reports to the department say persons who claim to represent the government are appearing in infected states with so-called cures.

Officials say there is no specific cure for the disease and that the only way to prevent its spread is to keep well herds from contact with infected ones. The warning cautions farmers to make sure that men claiming to represent the department are actually federal inspectors.

The department of agriculture particularly cautioned stockmen not to allow strangers to visit their stock or attempt any demonstrations of so-called cures by injections or otherwise, as there is great danger such persons might disseminate the disease by carrying the germs on their clothing.

"In infected territory," the statement said, "it is quite possible that a man who has come in contact with stricken animals may bring the disease to a perfectly healthy herd. This also accounts for much of the spread of hog cholera."

LOCAL COMPANY BUILDING
ADDITION TO FACTORY

Hoosier Harness Co. Getting Ready to Handle $250,000 Contract for Foreign Country.

That the big harness contract, amounting to a quarter of a million dollars, may be handled as rapidly as possible the Hoosier Harness Company is building an addition to its factory at the corner of Ewing and Third streets. The harness will be manufactured for a foreign country and will be made unusually heavy for use on the battle field. At first it was believed that the order came from Great Britain but now there is no certainty that that government filed the order and the harness may be sent to another country involved in the titanic struggle.

In order to fill the big order the plant will be operated to its capacity for several months. The harness must be made according to the specifications of the government ordering it and will be inspected before it is delivered. Great care must be exercised in manufacturing for each piece that does not comply in strict conformity with the requirements will be rejected. The contracts mean much to the local concern and will bring a large amount of money into circulation in this city.

Mrs. John Ruddick, who has been seriously ill for several days, is slightly better today. Mr. Ruddick was unable to attend the trial at Brownstown because of her illness and was excused after his testimony was given.

Fred Miller, who lives on East Second street, paid the assessment of $142 for street improvement and believes he is one of the first affected by that contract to settle with the city.

Contributions for the Belgian relief fund continue to come today from all directions and $33.25 cash and $501.25 in exchange is added since yesterday's report, swelling the total to $614.50. In addition to the local interest contributions received by the Republican from Reddington, Cortland, Rockford and far away Norwood, La., indicate how widespread is the interest in the relief movement for the worthy sufferers of Belgium. The coming of winter is adding to the needs of the people and the response of America to the call for help is very gratifying.

In today's contributions is one from one of our leading fraternal organizations, the Knights of Pythias who are thus putting into practice one of the principles of their order.

The Blish Milling Co.'s contribution of 400 sacks of flour amounting in value to $500.00 is the largest gift to the fund. We hope the cash contributions during the coming week before the fund closes will bring the total from Seymour and Jackson county over the $1,000.00 mark.

Three letters received today with contributions will be of interest: Norwood, La., Nov. 14, 1914. Mr. Jay C. Smith, Dear Sir: I see in the Republican that a contribution will be sent from Seymour for the sufferers of the war in Europe. Find enclosed a check for $5.00 for same which you will please turn over to the right parties, and oblige. Fred C. Miller.

Cortland, Ind., Nov. 20, 1914. Seymour Republican:

"A Friend" has just been in who gave me a "V" with a request that I send it to you to be applied to your Belgian Relief Fund not using her name.

For safety I send my personal check for same amount.

Yours truly,
W. R. Dunn.

"I wish to contribute my mite to the Belgian Relief Fund. I am an old soldier. I served three years in the Civil War and oft times went hungry and can sympathize with those sufferers. I remember one time when I was at Bridgeport, Alabama, with Buell's army, General Bragg of the Confederate army started north to capture Louisville. General Buell started after him and when we got near Bowling Green, Ky., we halted for the night to lie on the ground to sleep. The commissary wagons failed to come up and we had nothing to eat after a hard day's march but by some means there was issued to us some flour. I had no cooking utensils, nothing but a tin cup for drinking purposes. Each soldier carried a rubber blanket called a ponco. It had a slit in the center and we poked our heads through and it kept the rain off. I didn't know how I was going to use my flour but I spread my ponco down on the ground and poured my flour on one corner of it and poured water on it and mixed it to the consistency of dough. I rolled it out with my hands to a long string about twelve inches long, then coiled it around a stick and stuck the stick in the ground near the fire I had built and baked my bread.

I don't doubt but that when those starving Belgians get the flour they will find some way as I did to cook it, so I hereby contribute $5.00 and my sympathy.

SEYMOUR DAILY REPUBLICAN

VOLUME XXXIII NO. 289

SEYMOUR, INDIANA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1914

PRICE TWO CENTS

GOVERNMENT WILL AID UNEMPLOYED

Under New Plan Every Rural Post-office Will Become Bureau to Help Those Out of Work.

BLANKS TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Final Preparations Are Being Made and Plan Will Be in Operation By the First of the Year.

Under the broad powers conferred by law on the department of labor, the United States government is preparing to relieve congestion of the unemployed in large cities by finding jobs in the rural districts for all suitable men and women, regardless of whether they be aliens or native born.

With the active assurance of the postoffice department and the department of agriculture it is intended to make every rural postoffice in the United States an employment office to aid in the distribution of farm laborers, lumbermen, day laborers, road makers, general out of door workers, domestics, and rural help of all sorts. To facilitate the work, applications for help will be sent postage free to the nearest of eighteen district distributing stations of the immigration bureau, which are being equipped for the work in zones covering the entire country.

J. W. McGraw, assistant in charge of the division of information of the immigration bureau, predicted that the entire plan will be in operation within thirty days, or by the first of the year at the latest. District offices of the immigration bureau will be utilized as central distributing stations for the zones in which they are located.

The general plan, which is being perfected as rapidly as possible, includes the posting of notices in the postoffices telling rural employers that they can obtain help by describing their wants on a blank which may be obtained from the postmaster and which will be mailed free to the nearest distributing station.

As soon as the are in a position to do so, the distributing stations will serve notice to the unemployed that they will receive applications for jobs, and applicants at the zone offices will be given blanks to fill out stating their qualifications.

It is even intended to go as far as to receive transportation money from farmers and to hold it until a trustworthy man appears who can be given a ticket and accompanied to the train by an immigration inspector, mail the check to the employer as a matter of prudence to guard against being imposed upon.

It is probable that efforts will be made to induce railroads to grant excursion tickets where practicable to aid the unemployed in reaching jobs. It has even been suggested that transcontinental excursions be run for the purpose, although the zone system would seem to render such long distance trains superfluous. Publicity will be sought in city and country newspapers.

A plan to utilize the services of the thousands of weather observers scattered over the country in rural districts also is under consideration. The department of agriculture is co-operating with the department of labor and the postoffice department to further the general plan. Blank forms have been devised to facilitate the work, and these blanks are now being distributed to the eighteen distributing centers. The blanks for use in the postoffices are in course of preparation.

Mr. McGraw suggested that criticism might be made by thoughtless persons on the ground that the movement would interfere with organized labor, and anticipated the criticism by pointing out that rural workers are without organization of any kind.

"The unemployed who may contemplate making use of the system which is being installed must not get the idea that the work is already in operation," cautioned Mr. McGraw. "It will take a month or six weeks before applicants for jobs and for help can be accepted. Notice of the opening for business will be given in due time."

In addition to the finding of jobs for the unemployed, a special effort is to be made to facilitate the finding of farms by immigrants who want to buy land.

Twelve Hundred Foreigners Prepare to Fight for Their Freedom.

By United Press.
Philadelphia, November 20.—Twice a week 1,200 Polish Falcons, residents of this city, undergo grueling military drill. Once a month they participate in field maneuvers. Several hundred women folk of Polish descent undergo training no less vigorous, some as nurses for wounded, some as amazons.

These are but a part of the 40,000 men and 4,000 organized Polish women in America, who are awaiting the opportune moment to strike for the freedom of Poland. Three previous uprisings of the Poles in 1830-48 and '63 failed to bring independence to Poland as a nation, and that country is now divided between Austria, Russia and Germany.

After the present war is over, the Polish leaders will present a petition signed by 3,000,000 of their folk, demanding their national independence. If it be refused, the leaders say an armed attempt will be made to gain their rights. For this reason 1,200 Poles are drilling here.

"DRYS" WILL COME BACK STRONG IN BUCKEYE STATE

Man Villages and Towns Ask Option Election Under New Constitutional Amendment.

By United Press.
Cleveland, O., November 20.—Badly defeated in the state elections November 3, when state wide prohibition was defeated and forty "dry" counties became automatically wet by the passage of the "home rule" amendment to the state constitution, Ohio "drys" are already preparing to come back strong.

More than fifty villages and townships filed with the Secretary of State today petitions for elections under the new amendment which provides that a municipality or township may vote itself dry. Under the Rose law which was repealed by the amendment the unit of liquor legislation was the county.

Wayne B. Wheeler, chairman of the Ohio anti-saloon league, has already announced that the temperance forces contemplate a second attempt for state wide prohibition at the elections next November.

Students of Municipal Government Tells How New System at Philadelphia Works.

By United Press.
Baltimore, November 20.—How the merit system in municipal government works in Philadelphia will be presented by Arthur M. Swanson, chief examiner for Philadelphia's civil service commission today at the third session of the annual meeting of the National Municipal League in session here. His subject is "The Practicability of the Merit System", and it is expected that he will point out some interesting features in Mayor Blankenberg's administration.

Among other interesting speakers who will be heard this afternoon and tomorrow are Former Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte, who is going to preside over the session devoted to political methods, and Henry M. Waite, city manager of Dayton, Ohio. Mr. Waite will explain the workings of new civic ideas which are being attempted in his city.

Popular Mechanics for December.

Photography is the medium on which Popular Mechanics Magazine relies to present to its readers events, conditions, developments and incidents of the European conflict. Pictures such as the alert photographers are now able to secure, tell succinctly far more than printed text can. In the December Magazine there are 52 of these views, some of which were obtained at great risk. Also there are a number of articles pertaining to the war. One relates some of the daring feats of the military fliers of the warring nations; another tells how ingeniously carrier pigeons are used not only to convey messages but also to photograph the territory across which the birds fly; yet another describes some of the curious and pathetic incidents of the war. The havoc wrought in the ancient cathedral at Rheims is graphically shown in two pages of reviews. H. H. Windsor's editorials all relate, in one way or another, to the war.

LITTLE GIRL DIES
IN BURNING HOUSE

Two-Year-Old Daughter of Chase Biocourt, Bartholomew County, is Victim of Fire.

EXPLOSION OF COAL OIL CAN

Father's Clothing Ignites and He is Painfully Burned—Mother Carried to Safety.

The following is taken from the Columbus Republican:

Replenishing a fire with coal oil resulted in the death of a baby, the serious burning of a man and the destruction of a dwelling house at old St. Louis, about 7:45 o'clock this morning.

Anna Laura Biocourt, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chase Biocourt, was burned to death when a coil oil can in the hands of her father exploded. He was seriously burned, but it is thought he will recover. Mrs. Biocourt, who is ill, was carried from the house. Dr. W. J. Norton, of Hope, who had been called to see Mrs. Biocourt, dragged Biocourt from the flames and tried to save the child, but could not do so. He narrowly escaped serious burns himself. Dr. Reed, of Hope, happened along a short time later and assisted in dressing Biocourt's burns.

After Dr. Norton had been called to the Biocourt home this morning to see Mrs. Biocourt, the latter's husband decided the fire needed replenishing and procured the family coal oil can. He went to the stove and his little two-year-old daughter toddled along behind him. She was standing by his side when he poured some of the oil on the smoldering fire. As soon as the oil struck the coals a flame shot up to the point and the can exploded. The burning oil enveloped the little girl and poured over her father. In a twinkling the room was ablaze.

Dr. Norton ran to the assistance of the man and the baby. He managed to drag Biocourt away from the flames but the child could not be saved. Mrs. Biocourt was removed from the building and in a short time it was a mass of ruins. No household goods were saved.

Biocourt is a laboring man and rented the property from Mrs. Emma Dodd, of Flatrock.

Over the telephone from Hope today Dr. W. J. Norton gave a connected story of the tragedy. He said he had been called to see Mrs. Biocourt and found that the heating stove had not yet been put up. Biocourt was putting up the stove and after it was ready he built a fire. Dr. Norton had been playing with the baby but let the child off his lap and went into the next room to see Mrs. Biocourt. He heard Biocourt remark that the fire had gone out and he would have to get some more oil.

Dr. Norton saw Biocourt re-enter the room with the gallon can of oil in his hand and a moment later there was an explosion. By the time Dr. Norton could rush into the room Biocourt was a mass of flames. Ill, though she was, Mrs. Biocourt jumped from her bed and assisted Dr. Norton in trying to smother the flames with bed clothing.

The physician then ran back to try and save the baby but by that time the whole room was a sheet of flame. He could not even see the baby or the stove and was forced to run for his own life, escaping by another door.

After the house had burned down the charred body of the little girl was found and taken to the undertaking establishment of Oscar McIntyre's at Hope where it was prepared for burial. The body was buried at Old St. Louis this afternoon.

Biocourt is badly burned but will recover. He already was crippled in one hand and as a result of his burns this morning it is thought the other hand will be permanently disabled.

Dr. Norton's eyebrows were singed but he escaped without being otherwise burned.

This afternoon it was said Mrs. Biocourt was in a critical condition. She was ill when the fire broke out this morning and that, coupled with the shock of her baby's death and her husband's injuries, has brought on a relapse.

B. & O. OFFICIALS DESIRE TO WORK WITH THE PUBLIC

Representatives of Company Urged to Keep in Touch With State and Municipal Affairs.

The question of public relations between the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the communities served by its lines is one of absorbing interest to the management, as indicated by a circular which has been sent to all officials, agents and other representatives of the road, urging them to exert every effort to promote good will by bringing about a fair understanding of railroad problems while at the same time according due consideration to public rights.

Representatives of the railroad have been instructed to keep in touch with matters of state and municipal government, as well as with the activities of business organizations, so that where railroad questions are involved the company may secure a hearing when propitious for it to do so. The sense of the circular is that the local representatives of the Baltimore and Ohio shall act in a representative capacity for the management.

At meetings of town councils, trade organizations or citizens, the railroad representatives are urged to enter their appearance and give consideration to the questions which come up. In this way the management aims to put itself in intimate touch with public opinion in order to work along co-operative lines with the communities upon whom it depends for revenue.

Agents and others are urged to keep themselves informed through the medium of the local press and forward such articles as may be of interest to superiors. The purpose of the Baltimore and Ohio policy is to extend the plan adopted recently of tendering to the various communities the expert services of its engineering, transportation, traffic, industrial and other officials free of charge in working out their problems. Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio are called into consultation often on problems concerning waterworks improvements, street construction, erection of buildings, etc., the aim being to give the communities the benefit of every possible assistance.

The present policy of railroad management which has as its foundation co-operation between transportation interests and the people the serve, suggested the circular which is being sent to Baltimore and Ohio representatives.

Y.M.C.A. CONVENTION
IN SESSION TODAY

Prominent Speakers Will Conduct Noon Meetings at Lafayette Factories and Railway Shops.

MAYOR WELCOMES DELEGATES

Dr. W. A. Millis, President of Hanover, Will Discuss Opportunities in the Country.

Programs announcing the details of the annual state convention of the Indiana Young Men's Christian Association at Lafayette, Nov. 20 to 22, have been issued by the executive committee in Indianapolis. One of the features of the convention this year will be the shop meetings to be held at noon on Friday and Saturday of the convention period at the various industries and railroads of Lafayette. These will be conducted by prominent speakers and association secretaries from Indiana and from some of the larger cities of the country.

George D. McDill, of Chicago, a secretary for the International Committee, Y. M. C. A., and W. N. Northcott, a railroad secretary of the Chicago Y. M. C. A., will be in charge of the shop meetings, assisted by local and state secretaries.

The opening session of the convention took place in the Central Presbyterian church. John C. Haswell, chairman of the state executive committee presented the annual state report. Treasurer John F. Wallick, of Indianapolis, read his report. Dr. Wallace C. Payne, of Irvington, Ind., delivered an address at this session.

The afternoon will be devoted to group conferences under three general heads: city, railroad and student associations. These conferences will be preceded over by Clarence B. Kessinger, Vincennes; Mayor Frank B. Smith, of Elkhart, and Dr. Thomas C. Howe, president of Butler College, respectively.

At supper members of the student group will be guests of the Purdue University Association. Talks will be made by Dr. Frank H. Bart, president of the Y. M. C. A. College, Chicago; President W. A. Millis, of Hanover College, and Chas. D. Hurry, student secretary for the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A.

On of the big features of the convention will be the business men's dinner at 6:30 p. m. tonight in the gymnasium of the Lafayette Y. M. C. A. Clarence B. Kessinger, of Vincennes, president of the state association, will preside. Hon. Thomas Bauer, mayor of Lafayette, will welcome the delegates; C. S. Rhoads, superintendent of telegraph of the Big Four, will speak on "President Wilson, and the recent Pittsburgh Anniversary"; G. L. Reeves, of Columbus, will talk in "Recent Glimpses of Associations in the Old World"; State Secretary E. E. Stacy will give an illustrated talk in "Indiana's New Buildings and Activities of 1914." The program will close with an address on "The Association as a Safety Factor" by H. R. Kurrie, of Chicago, president of the C. I. & L. Railroad.

The business session of the convention will take place Saturday morning, following addresses on the association's rural opportunity by Dr. Millis, of Hanover College, and the work of the Y. M. C. A. College by Dr. Frank H. Bart. Election of officers for 1915 will take place at that time.

Saturday afternoon delegates will see the Purdue-Indiana football game on Stuart field. A feature of Saturday evening will be a dinner for the boys at Lafayette. Following a song service at the convention quarters, Secretary E. E. Stacy will give an illustrated talk in "The World-Wide Association Movement", and Charles D. Hurry of the International Committee will discuss "The Association and the Great War." Dr. Geo. J. Fisher of the International Committee also will be included in the Saturday evening program.

Union meetings will take place Sunday morning with convention speakers in the pulpits of local churches. A big men's mass meeting is planned for the afternoon, with an address by Henry M. Dowling, of Indianapolis. At the same time there will be a boy's and woman's meeting. The convention will close Sunday evening with a delegates' farewell service.

WESTERN FOOTBALL SEASON
COMES TO CLOSE SATURDAY

Indiana - Purdue and Ohio - Northwestern Games Most Important In the Central States.

By United Press.
Chicago, November 20.—Three great battles will bring the western football season to a close tomorrow. The victorious Illinois will meet Wisconsin at Madison; Minnesota will invade Stagg field, and Nebraska, king of the Missouri Valley conference, goes into combat with Iowa at Iowa City.

The result of the meeting at Madison is not much in doubt. The Illinois are doped to win unless the train to Madison topples over and mangles Pogue, Clark, Macomber and Schobinger. Fresh from a beating at the hands of the Gophers, Juneau's eleven is counted upon to die gamely—but to die just the same. A victory for the Illinois will give the Orange and Blue an untainted Western conference title and the record of possessing one of the best-oiled scoring machines in the west in several years. If the Wisconsin springs an earthquake and upsets the form—well, spring your own dope.

Here at Stagg field, Doc Williams' output from Minnesota will go to bat with the Maroons for second place in the western conference race. If figures don't lie the howling mob at the Chicago athletic field is due to watch a great fight.

On dope, there was scarcely a shade between the two elevens. Chicago beat Iowa 7 to 0 early in the season. Minnesota won from the Hawkeyes a week later by the same score. Illinois battered the Gophers 21 to 6, and won from Chicago 21 to 7. Their Wisconsin games hand the shade to Minnesota. The Gophers routed the Madison lads, 14 to 3. The best Chicago could do was a scoreless tie with the Badgers.

The Gophers look to have the best offense; the Maroons have the edge in defensive tactics. Hiking back to the political sharks for vocabulary, if there's a landslide the chances are the Gophers win. If the Gopher backs fail to smash the Maroons defense to any alarming degree, then the team that gets the shade of the luck should win. The "experts" don't expect to see a Chicago victory by a big score, though Dolly Gray's promised entry into tomorrow's game may spill this guess-work.

The Iowa-Nebraska game at Iowa City may definitely settle Nebraska's claim to consideration as the real western champion. Both Minnesota and Chicago have won from Iowa this year, 7 to 0. Earlier in the season, the Gophers overwhelmed South Dakota after the Dakotans had held Nebraska to a scoreless tie. But a decisive victory for Nebraska tomorrow should at least set the Cornhuskers on par with Chicago and Minnesota. To the impartial observer, it would appear that the Nebraskans must win by a top-heavy margin to support their claim of equality with Illinois. A victory for Iowa would knock the Cornhuskers' aspirations out of the ring.

The Nebraskans are generally picked to win though the well-known "figgers" give Iowa, if anything, the shade. Stiehms' eleven won from Ames, 20 to 7. The Iowans last Saturday piled up a 26 to 6 score against Ames.

The Indiana-Purdue game and the Ohio-Northwestern meeting are the other feature contests in the middle west tomorrow.

POSTAL BLDG.

"There Are
No Empty Houses
In Seymour"*---There Is a Reason

This, the slogan of Fall Festival Week in Seymour, was never more true than today. If you doubt it, start out and try to find one.

Especially is this true of modern houses. Despite the fact that practically all of the larger houses which have been erected within the past few years have been modern in every respect, there is a notable scarcity of such houses available today.

Many homes in all parts of the city have been remodeled and modernized in the past few years, but still the demand far exceeds the supply.

More and more home builders are beginning to regard water, gas, and electricity, formerly looked upon as luxuries, as necessities, and the modernly equipped home does not stay idle long these days—not in Seymour. There is a constantly growing demand for good rental properties, and desirable places are hard to find.

This despite the fact that Seymour is essentially a City of Home Owners—a city which has probably a larger percentage of citizens owning their own homes than any city of like size in the state.

The best thing, the most encouraging feature, of all this, is the fact that unlike many other towns, we have had no 'mushroom' growth, no industrial 'booms', no attempts to inflate real estate values, but only a sure, steady, normal, healthy growth, a growth which has been the result of the general prosperity of our business men and manufacturing institutions, and the steady work afforded our laboring men, a growth which must continue and which will make for not only a larger, but for a better Seymour.

If houses are scarce, building lots, especially on the principal residence streets, are almost impossible to find. To secure a desirable building lot it is almost necessary to purchase a house and lot, and either move the house off the lot or tear it down, or to go to one of the new residence additions, which are rapidly being built up.

Instrumental in the building of many Seymour homes have been the Building and Loan Associations of the city. The Building and Loan plan presents an ideal solution of the home question to the man of moderate means and not only this, but it also presents an investment proposition which is proving more and more popular to those who desire a safe and profitable place for their savings. A few shares in a Building and Loan Association is one of the best incentives to regular and systematic saving. Managed, as the local institutions are, by practical, successful, business men, they are valuable and vital factors in the business affairs of the city.

The Real Estate dealers of the city form a convenient and essential medium between the buyer and the seller, and deal extensively in city property and farm lands.

The city is also fortunate in having a large number of successful builders and contractors, and no one need go out of town when planning his home. The products of the local dealers in building material have received recognition throughout the state.

So remember, when planning your new home, that local Real Estate men can secure you your location, local architects can draw your plans, local contractors can build it, local lumber mills can supply your materials and local plumbers can equip it with all modern conveniences.
No use to go out of town—keep your money in Seymour.

Regular Saving Is the Foundation of Success in Business and Home Making.

The Cooperative Building and Loan Association offers the citizens of Seymour the opportunity to save their money in any amount from 25c per week up.
These accumulated savings are loaned where the money is absolutely safe, on first mortgage on real estate in Jackson county. The earnings are apportioned to the stockholders every three months in proportion to the amounts paid in. By this plan your savings earn money from the day you invest them and in a little while you have a good sum with which you can secure a home or go into business or do any other of a dozen things you have in mind.

See the secretary and arrange to save money regularly under the plan that will earn you dividends while you save.

have given a maintenance bond to maintain same. The six-inch water main has been laid to supply all modern homes with water, and fire hydrants have been placed to protect homes from fire. All of this work has been done under the direction of the city engineer. Nothing has been "guessed."

The price of these modern improved lots range in price, according to size and location, from $350.00 to $500.00. The distance from the center of town, corner of Second and Chestnut streets, is six blocks.

If you are thinking of buying, look around at any vacant lot in the city of Seymour and you will find they are priced from $500.00 to $3,000.00 and will cost you from $50.00 to $150.00 to get sewer and water connection. Come and see us and we will be glad to show you about what a modern house will cost, according to size and style.

Sunday School Lesson

November 22 (Fourth Quarter) Lesson 8
JESUS AND PILATE

GOLDEN TEXT:—Pilate saeth unto them, What shall I do unto Jesus who is called Christ. Matt. 27:22

This chapter begins with the words, "When the morning was come." What an eventful night it had been—the last passover, with all its incidents; the great discourse and prayer; the agony of Gethsemane; the betrayal and the arrest; the mockery of a trial before the chief priests and the council, with the buffeting and spitting; the denial of Peter with his oaths and curses.

Now they bind Him again and lead Him away to Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor, that He may be put to death. If the Jews had the power to kill Him He would have been stoned as Stephen afterward was, but the prediction in Ps. xxii, 16—"they pierced my hands and my feet"—indicated crucifixion, and every Scripture must be fulfilled.

The record in John xviii, 28, to xix, 14, seems to come in before our lesson verses, telling of Pilate's private interview with Jesus and how He came out again and again and said, "I find no fault in Him." How when he asked what prisoner He should release unto them, as was his custom at this feast, they asked for Barabbas, who was a robber and murderer. How Pilate had Jesus scourged, and the soldiers made a crown of thorns and put it on Him and mocked Him and smote Him. How Pilate brought Him forth wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe and said, "Behold the Man!" And they all cried out, "Crucify Him, crucify Him!" and said, "By our law He ought to die because He made Himself the Son of God."

When Jesus made no reply to Pilate's question, "Whence art Thou?" and asked if He did not know that he had power to crucify or release Him, Jesus said that Pilate could have no power against Him except it were given him from above. As Pilate persisted in his efforts to release Him the Jews said, "If thou let this man go thou art not Caesar's friend." Then Pilate brought Jesus forth and sat down in the judgment seat, and Jesus stood before him, the Creator before one of His creatures.

It is even so as you read this—your Creator in the person of the Lord Jesus is before you to be worshiped, revered, adored if you have already received Him as your own personal Saviour; if not, then the one great and only question for you to answer is the one in verse 22 of our lesson, "What shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?" It is never in any case a question of our standing before men, character or good works or even church membership, which may mean something or nothing, but only this, Am I in Christ, redeemed by His precious blood who bare my sins in His own body on the cross?

Pilate sitting on the judgment seat and Jesus standing before him, the chief priests and elders accuse Him of many things, such as perverting the nation, forbidding to give tribute to Caesar, proclaiming Himself a King. To all these accusations Jesus answered never a word, and Pilate marvelled greatly (verses 12-14; Luke xliii, 2, 3).

It is trying to be lied about and falsely accused either behind one's back or before your face, but to do as Jesus did and answer nothing when there is nothing to be answered is the better way.

Nothing can be said or done to any member of His body without His permission or without His feeling it, and all suffering with Him and for His sake is a very great privilege. Consider continually that He who bore all this so meekly was not only in reality King of the Jews, but also King of nations, ruler of the kings of the earth, King of kings and Lord of lords, and all kings shall fall down before Him, all nations serve Him (Deut. x, 17; Ps. lxxii, 11; Rev. i, 5; xv, 3; xvii, 14; xix, 16). Oh, the stupendous wonder of it all that He should condescend to submit to all this for our sakes; then to think how little we are willing to bear for Him!

How Pilate sent Him to Herod to be further mocked and set at naught and how there also He answered nothing is recorded in Luke xxiii, 6-12. When He had been returned to Pilate he brought Him forth and said to the Jews, "Behold your King." But they cried out, "Away with Him, crucify Him. We have no king but Caesar" (John xix, 14, 15). Pilate's wife sent to him, saying, "Have thou nothing to do with that just man, for I have suffered many things this day in a dream because of Him." But the chief priests and elders prevailed, and when Pilate washed his hands, saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this just person," they all answered, "His blood be on us and on our children" (verses 19, 20, 24, 25).

So Barabbas the murderer was released and Jesus Christ the Holy One of God, God manifest in the flesh, delivered to their will to be crucified (verse 26; Luke xxiii, 24, 25).

cent of the blood of this just person," they all answered, "His blood be on us and on our children" (verses 19, 20, 24, 25).

This is the hatred of God which is in the heart of man, for the carnal mind is enmity against God, and only the Spirit of God can convince of sin, the great sin of rejecting Christ, and open the heart to receive Him.

Because they chose Barabbas and Caesar instead of Christ their sufferings continue to this day.

Reducing Corsets

Unless a corset intended for the reduction of stout and medium figures has sufficient strength to withstand every strain put upon it and still retain its shapeliness until thoroughly worn, it is an expensive and unsatisfactory garment from the very beginning—because it starts to lose its shape the first time it is worn. That is why Rengo Belt corsets have always been made doubly strong. They have wonderful value because they need not be discarded before half worn out. They are strong enough to positively reduce the excess flesh at the back, hips and abdomen. Their elastic freedom is unequalled. The new models are ready for inspection. You will find them boned with double watch-spring steels guaranteed not to rust.

MEN WHO PASS ON WAR NEWS

Press Censors Domiciled In College For Women.

THEY'RE ALWAYS ON DUTY.

Take No Chances With Names and Dates—At Work Twenty-four Hours Daily—Maurice Barres' Story of Trip From Belfort Into Alsace Largely Blotted Out.

In four large classrooms of a Paris college for young women the military press censor and his many, very many, assistants are at their work all the twenty-four hours long. No chances are taken of dates, names of places or generals or army divisions, or military action still going on, getting published, as was done in 1870, when Moltke won a battle on indications furnished by a London correspondent. Every newspaper has to present its entire proof before going to print. There are few which do not have to appear with blank spaces where the censor has blotted out perhaps their most cherished paragraphs.

Thus Maurice Barres has his usual daily leading article at its place in the Echo de Paris Oct. 19. He tells of a hurried visit he has just made from Belfort into Alsace with the invading French army. It is a danger point now more than ever. He is allowed two introductory paragraphs, each five lines long, and then, just as he is getting interesting—nine lines are blank. Thirteen lines tell what some young officers said—and then there is another blank space where he had written thirteen more lines. Never was he writing more effectively, but what did he say? If he has kept a copy, we may have it in a book—after the war. Still, nearly a column of his fetching prose is allowed to be printed, mostly anecdotes. Of course, it is the news columns which suffer most and properly, but I have seen an editorial article entirely blank, with only the title left standing!

One Army and One Chief.

In sum, for immediate publication, there is now only one general—the commander in chief—and the one army. Whatever has not yet been given out in the official communications is crossed and has to be left blank in the paper as printed for the public. The experiment, as fair minded journalists are the first to acknowledge, is succeeding. The French official communications do not profess to be complete, which would be the worst indiscretion of all; but they have been scrupulously exact in what they do communicate. After the first natural impatience to know everything instantly, public opinion has accepted the censorship, and with confidence. There is a feeling that, at least, one is not being led astray. And, then, what satisfactory reading there will be when all is told—after the war!

All this imposes a gigantic task on the censors. Each day they have to read and decide on more than 800 newspaper columns of matter and to take care not to favor one journal above another and to secure a certain uniformity in what they publish as news. And each separate proof must be censored in time for that particular paper's hour of going to press. This, too, is quite apart from the censorship of telegrams sent off by newspaper men. It is the censorship of news already printed, to see what may and what may not be allowed to appear for the public. It renders impracticable the elder James Gordon Bennett's rule for his editorial writers—"Rehearse the facts!"

USES AUTO TO KILL DEER.

Judge Remits Fine, as the Hunter's Car Was Damaged.

San Antonians have loftily disdained the use of the pebelean gun for hunting, but instead have adopted the ultra fashionable method of killing game with automobiles.

Frank Ward, foreman of a road gang, is the latest resident to use an automobile when he goes hunting.

As Mr. Ward was on his way to the city from a road camp on the Smithson valley road, driving his car at a pretty good rate of speed, two bucks suddenly appeared in the middle of the road.

One, the larger, cleared the machine, but the smaller was struck by the car and had two legs broken. The machine also was badly damaged. Mr. Ward put the injured deer in his car and drove back to the camp. There he reported the incident to Justice of the Peace Alfred Toepferwein, who fined him $10 for killing a deer out of season. The Justice, however, remitted the fine on account of the damaged condition of the car.

High Life For Chicago's Cows.

Chicago, famous for its cows since Mrs. O'Leary's bossy kicked over a lantern and fired the city, now provides boudoirs for its stylish bovines. Arthur Meeker has foot baths for his cows. No bossy of his can retire at night or leave her stall in the morning without a foot bath. Joseph M. Cudahy's cows have their teeth cleaned by a revolving brush, which has been rigged up on an old horse clipping machine.

GRIPPING STORIES OF EUROPE'S WAR WHICH GOT BY THE CENSOR

How French Cruiser Engaged With Aeroplane and Submarine Simultaneously.

GRAPHIC incidents of the European war—some humorous, others intensely tragic—are reaching this side despite the strict censorship and some of the latest and best are given here:

A thrilling story of how a French cruiser engaged with an aeroplane and submarine simultaneously is told by a shipman, who says that the French armored cruiser Waldeck-Rousseau was heading for Cattaro in the small hours of the morning and was warned that three submarines had stolen out to get her. Day had scarcely broken when also an Austrian biplane came sailing through the air straight toward the cruiser, hovering at not more than 1,500 feet above the ship.

Unmoved apparently by the hail of shot by quick firers, the biplane let fall a bomb which splashed into the sea about thirty feet to the starboard, abate the bridge. A second bomb just missed the port quarter. At the same moment the lookout signaled submarine 800 yards to starboard. The submarine discharged a torpedo almost as soon as she was sighted, but the ship had time to shift her helm, and the deadly shaft went swirling by not more than three feet from the stern.

Before it could make a second shot the cruiser had blown away its periscope and another broadside must have sunk her, for she was never seen again. Another submarine came sneaking up on the other side. A destroyer endeavored to draw the cruiser's fire while the submarine crept in.

The Waldeck-Rousseau was easily a match for the two, and shortly after the destroyer turned and ran for the harbor with a nasty list to port, while the submarine dived to escape the storm of shell and did not show itself again.

"As if by Lightning!"

The awfulness of modern artillery fire is described in a thrilling story told by a British officer just returned from Flanders. He says:

"I took eight men to find out what happened to Captain B. and a platoon who were sent to support the firing line. Three hundred yards out I saw the line of our infantry lying flat on the ground and made toward them. I shall never forget traversing those 300 yards. The Germans' guns, which were only 800 yards away, fired with extreme accuracy. It seemed impossible my little party could escape. Three were almost immediately hit, but we others kept on and reached the line."

"To my horror I found all dead or wounded, except three men, who were keeping perfectly still. I found a subaltern on his knee with one hand resting on the ground just in the attitude of a runner who is waiting the signal for the start of a race. He was stone dead. A shrapnel bullet had pierced his head. The man next to him, badly wounded in the thigh, told me the entire line was struck down as if by lightning. He said the subaltern remarked after being hit: 'Go on, please; I can't move. I must be wounded.' In the center a bunch of twenty-five men lay in a heap, having massed as they advanced for mutual protection. I never have seen such wounds at this short range. Many had been blown to bits by shrapnel. One had twelve bullets in his leg. Another had his chest blown away."

Between Volleys.

"Latest" from the trenches: A hare, startled by rifle fire, bounds wildly along the space between the French and German trenches. Instantly every rifle aims at the animal, which is shot.

Impulsively a Frenchman jumps out and hastens to seize the game, having visions of a tasty evening meal. That does not suit the Germans, who, momentarily suspending their rifle fire, shout: "Tobacco! Tobacco!"

The Frenchmen comprehend at once that the Germans will allow them to appropriate the hare if they leave the tobacco in exchange.

Whereupon the Frenchmen collect cigarettes and tobacco. One goes out, lifts the hare and leaves in its place a respectable packet of tobacco for the Germans. Could anything be more chivalrous or sportsmanlike?

Ran With Blazing Shell.

The story of the heroism of a German corporal, who for his valor received the iron cross, is told in a recent issue of the Hamburger Fremdenblatt. It follows:

"I have had a talk with Corporal Hans Heinemann of the field artillery," writes the correspondent. "He received the iron cross during the storming of Liege. One-fifth of his battery had already been slain before it had advanced three miles and taken up its position in the trenches. All around the country the air reverberated from the thunder of the guns. The heavy artillery of the forts of Liege were hurling shells weighing hundreds of pounds."

"Suddenly in the heat of the battle one of these giant shells dropped right into the German battery. The sand was thrown up in all directions and the shell lay in the open hollow. Although it had failed to explode, the danger of its so doing at any moment was imminent, with annihilation to the entire battery. At this moment Corporal Heinemann sprang forward, picked up the 125 pound shell and carried it from the battery into the firing line, fully aware of the fact that in doing so he exposed himself to the fire of his own lines.

"Had the shell exploded during those seconds it would have torn him to fragments. However, luck was with him. Seventy feet from the battery he dropped it and hurriedly fled, but before he had covered fifteen feet the shell burst with a deafening roar, spitting its deadly hail of iron in all directions. A miracle saved the life of Hans Heinemann. Only a splinter hit his heel."

"Seven hours later Liege fell. Regardless of the wound, he took part in the storming and for three hours took part in the street fighting. Then he collapsed. A French surgeon nearby reported his wound. Belgium papers decried his deed."

How the British Take It.

"I was in a club in London the other night," writes a European correspondent. "A game of bridge was in progress. While one of the hands was being played the secretary entered the room and spoke to one of the governors, who was watching the play. They retired to a distant corner and whispered together for a moment or so. Then the governor turned to the table and stood waiting for the finish of the hand."

"Suddenly, as if by magic, conversation stopped. By some subtle telepathic process every one knew that something dread was in the air. The silence was ominous, portentous. There was no movement save that of the players, who continued the game with out a word until the last trick had fallen. Then one of the players turned to the governor and asked:

"'News for me?'
"'Yes, colonel,' replied the governor.
"'About my sons?'
"'Yes, colonel.'
"'Wounded?'
"'Killed.'
"'Which one?'
"'Both, colonel.'
"'The colonel reached across the table, poured out a drink and drank it. Then he addressed one of the onlookers.

"'Finish the rubber for me, please,' he said, and then, turning to his fellow players, he continued: 'Gentlemen, you must excuse me. I have to go and break the news to their mother.'"

Battle In Air Described.

A graphic description of the hazardous life of army aviators, particularly of two Germans who have gained iron crosses of both the first and second class, but who will not discuss specific achievements, has been written by Heinrich Binder, one of the best known German war correspondents, who came across the air men at Antwerp. This is Binder's account of the aviators' work, which was for artillery reconnaissance:

"At an average height of about 8,000 feet our aviators circle in huge ellipses between our batteries and the hostile position. The aeroplane vibrates. The motor rattles and roars and hums. This music soothes the nerves of the aviators. It is so loud in the quiet in the upper air that it drowns the thunder of even the heaviest artillery. With their field glasses the fliers observe the hostile position and note the effect of our artillery. Signals are given, 'Fall to the right,' 'Fall to the left,' 'Fall short' and 'Overshot mark,' but these signals are a secret."

"The French follow their well known tactics of changing their battery positions continually. But the aviators return again and again, dashing along at over sixty miles an hour, and report the new positions. It is murderous fighting. As a hawk circling around a chick before seizing it, so the aviator high in the air circles around the artillery positions of the enemy, heralding death and destruction. When he approaches the hostile position batteries spray their shrapnel upon him, and the infantry concentrates its fire upon his aeroplane. The aviator goes higher and higher till he can no longer see a man, and the trenches appear as mere scratches on the ground. But those of the French are more distinctly visible."

"The motor continues its roar and clatter. Suddenly a little French aeroplane emerges from a cloud. It is smaller and lighter than our kind, of the type known as the 'peasants' terror.' It makes an average speed of seventy-five miles an hour, and it is armed. Now there is a chase, as of one bird by another. They try to approach and then to elude each other. Neither side hears the shots fired by the other. The aviator can scarcely feel when a bullet strikes his own machine."

"The two aerial combatants soar higher till one or the other disappears in a protecting cloud that closes white and moist around him. If the danger becomes too threatening a gliding landing brings the aviators within their own lines. They must take care, however, not to get into the line of fire of their own army, for some of the big mortars throw their shells a mile or more into the air."

The Christmas Ship

We've packed it full of comfy caps,
Of mittens, sweaters, toys;
Gay dollies for sad little girls,
Games, puzzles, for the boys.

Deep in the hold are tiny boots,
Warm dresses, new and nice,
And all gifts tell of children's love,
And some of sacrifice!

Then for the babies—deary me!
Such loads of daintiest socks—
Pink, white or blue—soft petticoats,
Wee bonnets, jackets, frocks.

As box on box was crowded in
We pictured their surprise,
And hoped that joy might gleam again
In little tearful eyes.

We're glad that worried Uncle Sam,
Though busy, thought to pause
To cheer each tot whose father's killed,
So can't be Santa Claus.

God speed our ship across the waves!
The precious freight she bears
Is not alone our Christmas gifts,
But love and tears and prayers!

DIES AS DREAM IS REALIZED.

Man Who Founded Railway Passes
Away as Last Spike Is Driven.

By a strange coincidence John Lyons Romer, the man who, in the early days, incorporated the Northwestern Pacific railway, planning to carry it through to Eureka, died in San Francisco almost at the same hour that the silver hammer was falling on the gold spike at Cain Rock. The through road to the Humboldt region was one of the dreams which he had started toward realization.

Romer came to California in 1856, when eighteen years old. He was associated with Flood and O'Brien and was a member of the Stock Exchange in the days of the "bonanza kings." After serving in the legislature from San Francisco in 1869-70 he became successively purchasing agent for the California Steam and Navigation company, custom house attorney for the Central Pacific, land and business agent of the Southern Pacific and land agent of the Bellingham Bay and British Columbia railroad. Later he purchased the right of way for the Ocean Shore and was land agent for the Western Pacific. In starting the Northwestern Pacific he was one of the founders of Sausalito and established the first regular ferry service to the Marin shore with the old ferry steamer Princess, which is still in service.

Executioner Cuts His Price.

Th executioner at the Charlestown (Mass.) state prison has notified the warden that on account of hard times he will reduce his price for electrocuting condemned prisoners. It is believed he is not seeking to stimulate business, but rather to preclude his substitution by a cheaper man.

French Remedy Aids Stomach Sufferers

France has been called the nation without stomach troubles. The French have for generations used a simple mixture of vegetable oils that relieve all stomach and intestinal ailments and keep the bowels free from foul, poisonous matter. The stomach is left to perform its functions normally.

Mr. Geo. H. Mayr, a leading druggist of Chicago, cured himself with this remedy in a short time. The demand is so great that he imports these oils from France and compounds them under the name of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. People everywhere write and testify to the marvelous relief they have received using this remedy—one dose will rid the body of poisonous accretions that have accumulated for years and convince the most chronic sufferer from stomach, liver or intestinal troubles. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by

LAST DAYS OF LORD ROBERTS

Final Message Was Appeal to Young Englishmen.

VISITED BRITISH CAMPS.

"I'm So Glad I Came," He Declared. Discussing War, He Said, "Every Young Man in England Ought to Come Forward; the Need is Greater Than People Realize."

The death of Field Marshal Earl Roberts of Great Britain at the front in France, especially in view of the circumstances under which it occurred, has stirred England profoundly.

Whenever the announcement of Earl Roberts' death came it would have awakened regrets commensurate with his great services and universal popularity, but occurring in the field when he was fulfilling a mission on behalf of the country's service, for which he had exerted himself with unsparing devotion, his passing excites even deeper sorrow.

The sympathy of the army was conveyed to Countess Roberts, widow of the soldier, in the following appropriate telegram from General Sir John French:

"In the name of his majesty's army serving in France I wish to be allowed to convey to you and your family our heartfelt sympathy. Your grief is shared by us who mourn the loss of a much loved chief. As he was called, it seems a fitter ending to the life of so great a soldier that he should have passed away amid the troops he loved so well and within sound of the guns."

The London Post learned that Earl Roberts, after crossing to France, met the Indian troops the following day and had a great welcome. The following day he went to see the fighting. It was an extremely cold day, with a heavy rain and bitter winds. In spite of this, however, Lord Roberts insisted on going to the top of a certain hill exposed to the severest effects of a bleak day.

Was Not Seaisick.

Lord Roberts was in full health when he left England. The rough passage across the channel to France did not affect him, though many other passengers were seasick. He continued so well that he accomplished all the purposes of his visit and spent the first two days after his arrival in automobile from the British bases to the camps, discussing affairs with the leading generals and inspecting the Indian troops, which was the chief object of his mission.

The chill which resulted in his fatal illness is attributed to a thirty mile drive in an open automobile during a heavy downfall of rain, when Lord Roberts visited the corps commanders at various parts of the British lines. When he returned to Sir John French's headquarters at 4 o'clock in the afternoon he said he felt chilly and asked for a cup of tea. According to one report he was too ill to dine with General French as he had arranged.

During the night his temperature increased and a doctor was summoned. The physician made such a serious diagnosis that two others were called in. They concurred in the statement that the case was critical. The pneumonia progressed rapidly, and Lord Roberts complained of a slight pain, which the physicians relieved. Then he seemed to fall asleep, but passed away.

His daughter, Lady Aileen, who accompanied Lord Roberts to France, was at his bedside when the end came.

Lord Roberts had evidently been greatly pleased with his reception by the troops. He inspected the Indian troops and was received by the Maharajah of Bikaner, Sir Pertab Singh, and other noted Indian potentates. The troops gave him a rousing reception. The old field marshal's eyes glistened with pleasure as he saluted in acknowledgment of the cheers, and he said repeatedly:

"I am so glad I came."

When Lord Roberts landed at Boulogne he saw some wounded Indian soldiers and chatted with them in a cheering manner in Hindustani, which he spoke exceptionally well. He intended to visit the Indian hospital at Boulogne on his way home, and his coming was keenly anticipated. The news of his death depressed those at the hospital greatly.

A friend of Lord Roberts' quotes him as emphasizing a few days before his death the need of more men at the front. He quotes the field marshal as saying:

"Every young man in England ought to come forward. The need is greater than the people realize."

GRATITUDE.

As gratitude is a necessary and a glorious, so also is it an obvious, a cheap and an easy virtue, so obvious that wherever there is life there is a place for it, so cheap that the covetous may be grateful without expense and so easy that the sluggish may be so likewise without labor.

Queer Happenings In the War News

France is using four canal boats as ambulances to take wounded soldiers to Paris. An armed tug tows them.

Real redskins are soon to take part in the war. The Six Nations Indians in Canada will furnish a company of 120 officers and men.

Joseph Eiche, a game warden of Pas-saic, N. J., has had six brothers, five nephews and a niece killed in the war, but four brothers and fourteen nephews are still fighting for the kaiser.

M. Simyan of Paris is searching for the body of a son killed in Alsace picked up a bit of paper in the trench and found it to be his son's last statement, thrown aside when his pockets were searched.

Some of the hostile trenches about Roye are only fifteen yards apart, and a company of French sappers stumbled into the ditch where German sappers were working. A battle ensued with picks and shovels and continued until rifles began to crack, when the French escaped.

A French expert explains that the strange attitudes in which soldiers are found dead without a scratch are due to the terrific air pressure as a shell explodes. "This pressure," he says, "is suddenly withdrawn, the effect being to stop the whole human organism. It is as if a diver were sent to great depth and instantly brought back to the surface. No living being can stand such a strain."

ADVISED TO EAT MORE FISH.

People of New York Get a Circular From the Food Committee.

Mayor Mitchell's food supply committee of New York city sent out a circular advising people to eat more fish.

"The habit of eating fish on Fridays only is absurd and should be stopped," says the circular. "Fish are just as appetizing and nourishing on Tuesdays and Thursdays as on Fridays, and if you and your neighbors will buy fish any day in the week you will get cheaper fish and better fish. Hundreds of carloads of fish are sent from New York to other cities because the people living in New York do not appreciate the value of fish as a food and do not buy it as often as they should."

"Vary your diet as much as you can. You will be more healthy if you do. Don't use meat so much. Use fish more. Fish is just as nourishing as lean meat, and if eaten with bread, potatoes, etc., will supply all the needs of the body. If possible, buy your fish from a fish dealer.

"When you buy fish see that you get the trimmings. You are just as much entitled to them as you are to the trimmings of your meat. The meat part of almost any fish may be cooked separately. If you ask your fish dealer to remove the meat part of the fish for you the trimmings will consist of the head, the skeleton and the fins, and these can be made for fish stock, out of which can be made excellent fish soups and fish sauces."

JOHN D. NOT ANAEMIC.

Pastor Says Oil Man is in Good Health and a Pleasant Companion.

John D. Rockefeller is not an anaemic old gentleman with a citrous disposition brought on by chronic indigestion; neither is he constantly in fear of assassination and afraid to laugh for fear of being considered undignified. On the contrary, he is a pleasant companion, enjoys excellent health and has an appetite that no day laborer might be ashamed of. He is possessed of a sharp wit, a ready laugh and a kindly disposition and enjoys life to the utmost.

The Rev. Dr. William W. Bustard, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist church, Cleveland, of which Mr. Rockefeller has been a member for more than sixty years, is authority for these statements.

In addition to being Mr. Rockefeller's spiritual adviser, Mr. Bustard is one of his closest personal friends.

USES HIS ARM AS AUTO ROD.

Football Youth Thus Steers Broken Machine to His Home.

Curry Atherton, giant fullback of the Durand high school team, Durand, Mich., utilized his football training when the steering gear of his father's automobile broke. Mr. and Mrs. Atherton and son were on the road seventeen miles from home when the accident happened. There was no garage nearer than Durand.

Young Atherton solved the problem of getting home without walking. He lay prone on the running board, grasped the front axle with his right hand, using his arm for a steering rod and keeping the machine in the road by main strength. His father drove by keeping the engine running. He reached Durand without further trouble.

REVENUE FALLS $20,000,000.

Decline Due to the European War Becomes More Marked.

The decline in the government's receipts from all sources, which has been noticed ever since the outbreak of the war in Europe, showed a marked acceleration during the month of October. According to a statement from the treasury department, customs receipts for the month were about $14,000,000 less than for the same month a year ago and internal revenues $6,000,000, or $20,000,000 less in all.

This means an increase of about 400 per cent in the amount of the shortage as compared with that for the month of September. That month, as compared with the same month a year ago, showed a total loss in receipts of only about $4,000,000. For that month there was a decline of $9,500,000 in revenues, with an increase of $6,000,000 in internal revenues.

It will be some time before receipts from the war tax will offset this loss in revenues. At the close of the month the net balance in the general fund was $91,639,000, or $51,000,000 less than the net balance at the end of June. At the same time total cash assets were put at $1,886,000,000 as compared with $2,005,000,000 at the end of June.

From June 30 to Oct. 31 gold coin in the currency trust fund had decreased nearly $140,000,000, while the fund's bullion increased $8,000,000. It is believed that the reduction of the amount of this gold is due largely to the redemption of gold certificates by banks on becoming members of the new federal reserve system.

A Man to Let.

The train which bore me out of the arc of the Prussian fire at Strasbourg passed in between the fortifications of Paris the next morning about eleven o'clock. Ten minutes later I was in a closed cab on my way to the headquarters of the Imperial Military Police, temporarily housed in the Luxembourg palace.

I did not enter my door or even glance at it; I continued straight on, down the corridor to a door, on the ground-glass panes of which was printed in red lettering:

"HEADQUARTERS IMPERIAL MILITARY POLICE SAFE DEPOSIT."

I entered, passed rapidly along the face of the steel cage behind which some officers sat on high stools, writing, and presented myself at the guichet marked, "Foreign Division."

A very elegant officer strolled up to the guichet as I laid my bag of diamonds on the glass shelf, languidly unlocked the steel window-gate, and picked up the bag of jewels.

The officer was Mornac, the Emperor's alter ego, or some damee, who had taken over the entire department the very day I left Paris for the frontier. "Name and number?" inquired Mornac, indolently. I gave both.

"You desire to declare?" I enumerated the diamonds, and designated them as those lately stolen from the crucifix of Louis XI.

Mornac handed me a printed certificate of deposit, opened a compartment in the safe, and tossed in the bag without sealing it.

I limped off past the glittering steel cage, thankful that the jewels were safe, turned into the corridor, and hastened back to my own rooms.

To tear off my togs, bathe, shave, and dress in a light suit of civilian clothes took me longer than usual, for I was a trifle lame.

Pondering, I slowly retraced my steps through the bedroom and dressing-room, and out into the tiled hallway, where, at the end of the dim corridor, the door of Colonel Jarras' bureau stood partly open.

As I sat down I glanced around and saw my old comrade, Speed, sitting in a dark corner, chewing a cigarette and watching me in alert silence.

"You are present to report?" suggested Colonel Jarras, heavily.

I began my report, but was immediately stopped by Jarras with a peevish gesture: "All right, all right; keep all that for the Chief of Department. Your report doesn't concern me."

"Doesn't concern you?" I repeated; "are you not chief of this bureau, Colonel Jarras?"

"No," snapped Jarras; "and there's no bureau now—at least no bureau for the Foreign Division."

Speed leaned forward and said: "Scarlett, my friend, the Foreign Division of the Imperial Military Police has been abolished."

"Who the devil did that?" I asked savagely.

"Mornac."

Mornac! The Emperor's shadow! Then truly enough it was all up with the Foreign Division. But the shame of it!—the disgrace of as faithful a body of police, mercenaries though they were, as ever worked for any cause, good or bad.

As we sat there in silence, a soldier came to summon Colonel Jarras, and he went away, leaning on his ivory-headed cane, head bowed over the string of medals on his breast.

When he had gone, Speed came over and shut the door, then shook hands with me.

"He's gone to see Mornac; it will be our turn next. Look out for Mornac, or he'll catch you tripping in your report."

"Look here," I said, angrily, "how can Mornac catch me tripping? I'm not under his orders."

"You are until you're discharged. You see, they've taken it into their heads, since the crucifix robbery, to suspect everybody and anybody short of the Emperor. Mornac came smelling around here the day you left. He's at the bottom of all this—a nice business to cast suspicion on our division because we're foreigners. Gad, he looks like a pickpocket himself—he's got the oblique trick of the eyes and the restless finger movement."

"Perhaps he is," I said.

Speed looked at me sharply. "If I were in the service now I'd arrest Mornac—if I dared."

Then a soldier appeared to summon us both, and we followed to the temporary bureau.

At a careless nod from Mornac I muttered the formal "I have to report, sir—" and began mumbling a perfunctory account of my movements since leaving Paris.

I told the truth as far as I went, which brought me to my capture by Uhlands and the natural escape of my prisoner, Buckhurst. I merely added that I had secured the diamonds and had managed to reach Paris via Strasbourg.

He listened very quietly while I told of my encounter with Buckhurst in Morsbronn, of our journey to Saverne, to Strasbourg, and finally by own arrival in Paris.

"Where is Buckhurst?" he asked.

"I do not know," I replied, doggedly. "That is to say that you had him in your power within the French lines yet did not secure him?"

"Yes. There was something more important to do than to arrest Buck-hurst. I had every reason to believe that an important conspiracy was being ripened somewhere near Paradise. I had every reason to believe that the robbery of the crown jewels might furnish funds for the plotters.

"The arrest of one man could not break up the conspiracy; I desired to trap the leaders; and to that end I deliberately liberated this man Buckhurst as a stool-pigeon. If my judgment has been at fault, I accept the blame."

Mornac examined his carefully kept finger-tips in detail.

"You say he bribed you?"

"I said he attempted to do so," I replied, sharply.

"With the diamonds?"

"Yes."

"You have them?"

"I deposited them as usual."

"Bring them."

Angry as I was, I saluted, wheeled, and hastened off to the safe deposit.

The jewel-bag was delivered when I presented my printed slip; I picked it up and marched back, savagely biting my mustache and striving to control my increasing exasperation.

Never before had I endured insolence from a superior officer.

Mornac was questioning Speed as I entered, and he lolled in his chair with an absent-minded expression like the expression of a cat who pretends to forget the mouse between his paws.

The shock came almost immediately, for, without a word, he suddenly

"I Refuse to Be Discharged!"

emptied the jewel-bag on the desk before him. The bag contained little pebbles wrapped in tissue-paper.

"Suppose you explain this farce?" Mornac suggested, unmoved.

"Suppose you explain it!" I stammered.

He raised his delicately arched eyebrows. "What do you mean?"

"I mean that an hour ago that bag contained the diamonds from the crucifix of Louis XI! I mean that I handed them over to you on my arrival at this bureau!"

"Doubtless you can prove what you say," he observed. "It seems to me that it is high time we abolished the Foreign Division, Imperial Military Police."

"I refuse to be discharged!" I said, hoarsely. "It is your word against mine; I demand an investigation!"

"Certainly," he replied, almost wearily, and touched a bell. "Bring that witness," he added to the soldier who appeared in answer to the silvery summons.

Somebody entered the room behind me, passed me; there was an odor of violets in the air, a faint rustle of silk, and I saw Mornac rise and bow to his guest and conduct her to a chair.

His guest was the young Countess de Vassart.

Mornac turned directly on me. "Madame, do you know this officer?"

"Yes," said the countess, smiling.

"Did you see him receive a small sack of diamonds in Morsbronn?"

The countess gave me a quick glance of surprise. "Yes," she said, wonderingly.

"Thank you, madame; that is sufficient," he replied; and before I could understand what he was about he had conducted the countess to the next room and had closed the door behind him.

"Quick!" muttered Speed at my elbow; "let's back out of this trap. There's no use; he's one of them, and he means to ruin you."

"But he's got those diamonds! Do you think I can stand that?"

"I think you've got to," muttered Speed, savagely. "Do you want to rot in Cayenne? If you do, stay here and bawl for a court-martial."

He seized me with a growl of "Idiot! come on!" and fairly shoved me through the colonnades of the institute, along the quay, down the river-wall, to a dock where presently a swift river boat swung in for passengers.

And when the bateau mouche shot out again into mid-stream, Speed and I stood silently on deck, watching the silver-gray facades of Paris fly past above us under the blue sky.

We sat far forward, quite alone, and separated from the few passengers by the pilothouse and joined funnel.

I waited; Speed chewed his cigar grimly.

"Look here, Scarlett," he said. "Do you know what has become of the crown jewels of France?"

"No," I said.

"Well, I'll tell you. You know, of course, that the government is anxious. But you don't know what a pitiable fright the authorities are in. The crown jewels, the bars of gold of the reserve, the great pictures from the Louvre, the antiques of value, including the Venus of Milo, have been packed in cases and loaded on trains under heavy guard."

"Twelve of these trains have already left Paris for the par-pot of Lorient. The others are to follow, one every twenty-four hours at midnight. A swift cruiser—the Fer-de-Lance—is lying off Paradise with steam up night and day, ready to receive the treasures of the government at the first alarm and run for the French possessions in Cochinchina."

"And now, perhaps, you may guess why Buckhurst is so anxious to hang around Paradise."

Of course I was startled. Speed's muttered information gave me the keys to many doors. And behind each door were millions and millions and millions of francs' worth of plunder.

Our eyes met in mute interrogation; Speed smiled.

"Do you remember an application for license from the manager of a traveling American show—a Yankee circus?"

"Byram's Imperial American circus?" I said.

"That's it. They went through Normandy last summer. Well, Byram's agent is going to meet us at Saint-Cloud. We're engaged; I'm to do ballooning—you know I worked one of the military balloons before Petersburg. You are to do sensational riding. You were riding-master in the Spahis—were you not?"

"I tamed three lions for my regiment at Constantinople," I said.

"Good lad! Then you can play with Byram's lions, too. Oh, what the devil!" he cried, recklessly; "it's all in a lifetime."

How To Succeed.

During the last few years, conditions in all lines of business, even professional life, have changed so completely that every man is waking up to the fact that in order to win success he must specialize and learn to do some one thing and do it well. So it is with any article that is sold to the people. It must have genuine merit or no amount of advertising will maintain the demand for the article.

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy. From the very beginning the proprietors had so much confidence in it that they invited every one to test it.

It is a physician's prescription.

They have on file thousands of unsolicited letters received from former sufferers who claim they are now enjoying good health as a result of its use.

However, if you wish first to try a sample bottle, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., enclose ten cents and mention this paper. They will promptly forward you a sample bottle by Parcel Post.

Regular sizes for sale at all druggists—fifty-cents and one-dollar.

CONSTANCY.

Whatever is genuine in social relations endures despite of time, error, absence and destiny, and that which has no inherent vitality had better die at once. A great poet has truly declared that constancy is no virtue, but a fact.—Tuckerman.
